WELCOME TO CHENGDU, CHINA!

One of the most impressive sights in Chengdu is the incredible Leshan Giant Buddha statue, which took 90 years to build. Built in 803 AD, the statue is 71 meters high and 24 meters wide. The entire area was declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site in 1996. The Buddha statue is one of the largest statues in the world, and it is considered a symbol of Buddhism in China. It is located in the Leshan area, which is known as the cradle of Buddhism in China. The Buddha statue is made of stone and represents the historical Buddha, Shakyamuni. It is carved into a mountain face and is surrounded by two large stone lions. The Buddha statue is a major tourist attraction and is visited by millions of people each year.

The Dujiangyan Irrigation System is one of the most famous and important irrigation systems in the world. It was built more than 2,000 years ago and has been in continuous use ever since. The system consists of several channels, dams, and reservoirs that work together to transport water from the Min River to the Chengdu Plain, which is the location of the first Buddhist temple in China. The scenic summit of Mount Emei includes a temple complex that was built in the 8th century AD. The temple complex is one of the most important Buddhist sites in China and is known for its beautiful gardens and temples. Another important feature of the Dujiangyan Irrigation System is its role in environmental conservation. Because of its success in panda conservation, the Base has become a leader and educator in the field. The Base has tackled issues such as disease and genetic challenges among both giant and red pandas to help build the panda population. The Base was founded in 1987 with six pandas and has grown to become one of the largest facilities for giant pandas and other rare animals in the world.
