One of the biggest events in Taiyuan is the Dragon Boat Festival, also known as the Festival of the Dragon Boats. The festival commemorates the death of the great poet Qu Yuan of ancient China. The boats are intricately made and decorated and there are drummers on board to keep time for the rowers. The festival treats like zong zi (a sweet rice wrapped in the form a pyramid using bamboo leaves) and racing is a very divisive time in Chinese history.

In fact, kites have become an art form and a pastime, having become much more so since ancient times. Taiyuan is located near China's Yellow River, where China's civilization has a very long history. The exhibit shows more than 600 murals from more than 20 tombs and gives a peek at life in the Tang Dynasty. There is a small section of the city that remains dedicated to its historic roots. There, you can get a taste of what Taiyuan might have been like. Stepping into ancient Chinese culture.

Taiyuan is a deeply historical and ancient city, but has become largely very modern. However, the festival brings back the connection to the past and the festival is celebrated by eating and racing. One of the biggest events in Taiyuan is the Dragon Boat Festival, also known as the Festival of the Dragon Boats.

When you are in school, you may have a time in the day when you go out and play on the playground or have PE class. But in China, students are required 30 minutes of fitness requirement, but it's a little reason given for this is that they need physical time, but there is not enough space for them all to run. Instead, the whole school lines up and the gym. The boats are intricately made and decorated and there are drummers on board to keep time for the rowers. The festival commemorates the death of the great poet Qu Yuan of ancient China.

Nashville has its own park: Pearl Park. It is the site of the annual Dragon Boat Festival, which was started in 2012. The festival commemorates the death of the great poet Qu Yuan of ancient China. The boats are intricately made and decorated and there are drummers on board to keep time for the rowers. The boats are intricately made and decorated and there are drummers on board to keep time for the rowers.